information

Paul Heijnen graduated from the Design Academy Eindhoven in 2012. He very quickly proved to be a superb constructor. Paul's preferred materials are wood and steel, but sometimes the flexibility of plywood comes in handy. It doesn't affect the appearance of his work; his designs are always a pleasure to look at. Paul is a great designer for assignments. You can make an appointment upon request.

Enormous amounts of used plastic are used to make an indestructible table. This multi-shippable plastic gets the sturdiness and strength of marble. Remains of recycled synthetic material is unique and actually too appealing to be called waste. That's why Dirk collected left over materials, each and every one with its own history, colour and pattern. The result: a bold and splash table with a rustic and dark colour pattern. The circular holes in the table top fit perfectly onto the cone shaped legs. A strong connection without any additives.
