Brad, I've attached photos of the padding which was sent with the first shipment of rugs we received against the padding which was sent with the aqua rug. I'm trying to work out what it is that we were sent with the first rugs. I went on Healthier Choice's website to see which pad we were sent, but there is nothing on the site that looks like the blue one that is as thin as what we received.

What we got with the first shipment is only 1/16" thick, which does nothing for padding, versus the new one which is 7/16" thick and has a woven plastic backing on it, which the blue one does not have either. We have 2 bolts of the blue one on site, but the house managers didn't bother putting it under the rugs as it really does nothing. If you look at the bottom of the quote I sent earlier, it states we should have gotten the Healthier Choice Padding with MoistureBloc and Antimicrobial, but I don't believe that is what we were sent.

No problem, we will send these with the cotton rug when it comes in and add the cost to the final invoice, thanks!

Hi Brad, The sizes of the rugs are in the below invoice. We would need the same thick rubbery padding for all the rugs below except the Master Bedroom.

We do need the master bathroom though! Thank you!
