I understand from Valdson that (technically) in this type of car, it's difficult to have an ipad compatible radio installed with the use of the remote control (from the wheel or from the back seat). My understanding is that the car already has an ipad compatible radio which can only be managed/operated directly and not through the remote system from the wheel or the back seat. The difficulty is to find one which will fit with the remote control system existing in the car.

Valdson (who has made several contacts) has so far not been successful in finding one provider for this sort of radio which can fit with the existing installation using the existing remote control. He is however still expecting an answer from a highly specialized provider and will update us as soon as he gets anything.

Best regards.
