That all sounds amazing! Can't wait! I'm currently leaning towards easy going ski day with Peggy on Sat and massages ;-)

David, Nothing has changed yet and we can't wait to come see you guys! Mostly to celebrate our engagement, as we consider you guys family, but also for a little skiing.

The skiing plan sounds great. We can make the call on back country for [REDACTED] during the first day of skiing. As for food, I will eat anything and she will eat anything but meat. Mostly no red, sometimes but rarely chicken. She loves fish and pasta. We actually [REDACTED] have a return yet. We are still deciding where we are going next and wanted to see when you were leaving first. I wasn't sure if you decided the 28th and 29th.

We may stay as Jared was trying to come out that week to look for a place to buy or we may go to Aspen or back home to Miami. I will let you know as soon as we decide.

[REDACTED] and I both need to see Dr. Mark so maybe we can do that after you leave then will find our own way to the airport. If so we can pick up a rental car Sunday on the way home to drive around on Monday.

[REDACTED], does that all sound good to you?

All the best,

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] & [REDACTED], Assuming that your plans have not changed we look forward to picking you up Thursday evening. We will plan on skiing at Teton Village (primary commercial ski mountain) on Friday. If we need to rent any gear for either of you we can get it Friday morning. Saturday I have arranged for Zahan to take [REDACTED] and myself and [REDACTED], if interested, up in the National Park and skin up a mountain and ski down. This is fantastic aerobic exercise and normally amazing skiing. While I have a split board which you are welcome to utilize [REDACTED], I highly recommend that Friday we rent you an alpine skiing outfit. You a great skier and given my prior observation of snowboarders utilizing the split board I think that you will prefer the skis for skinning. Sunday we can go back to the village for a fun day on the mountain. If [REDACTED] chooses to ski with Peggy on Saturday my guess is that they will split the day into skiing and massages. We are planning to eat out Friday and Sunday and eat at our house Saturday evening. As I recall [REDACTED] had certain food preferences. Could you remind us of those so that we can chose the restaurants most appropriately. I have to fly out to Washington D.C. for the NetJets litigation on Monday the 28th at [REDACTED]:30am. What time is your departure on Monday? We had great snow through Christmas (130% of normal) but we have not had much since (we are back to normal) however we are scheduled to get some while you are here. As such the skiing in the Village will be mostly packed powder. Hopefully we will see some fresh powder but the High Pressure system has been pretty persistent. In any event it should be fun getting together. I might have a bottle of champagne or two so that we can celebrate....David
