looking up legal cases and rulings on common law name change and printing them. I'm going to bring it in to SS office in NY and show them they are blatantly disregarding the law.

I don't know why.. I argued with them for an hour that it didn't make sense and was completely illogical. I had both my old and new passport and old and new license and that wasn't enough.. It's unbelievable. I even googled on my phone "legal ways to change your name" and it came up with the way I did it.. they won't listen. it's really quite ridiculous

In Santa fe. Pissed off social security won't accept my name change without a court order even though my passport and drivers license have been changed. It makes no sense.

I just woke up on my own. I need to go to Santa Fe today to the social security office to get my name changed on my card. Going to see if I have more luck here than in ny. I have everything I need to do it, but ny peeps weren't that cooperative.
