i was all alone in the cockpit. and i was about 30 feet off the ground, flying through and industrial complex connected to an airstrip. at first i was chicken and only wanted to make it go side to side. then i went forward, and began take turns as i was zipping around in between buildings.

no hot chick. yet.

happy new year to you. i hope the night is fun for you, and the year is whatever you wish it to be.

talk to you soon.

jeff.
