Hello there. Well, I guess now that I'm all settled in is when I start to get bored. I have been working very hard at getting this place just right and now that's been achieved. No moving to be done again soon, I can already see myself starting to look for employment in a couple of weeks. I'm going to start with several agencies out here but I'm wondering if you or JE have any contacts? I know you both have several in Los Angeles but I am going to start with targeting Orange County first. I hope you make it out here soon. I don't want to have to call in sick to visit with you should I be already working! (just kidding) All of my new contact info is in the directory or at least it should be. I miss you but I'm very glad to be nice and warm out here..:)

Do you Yahoo!?
