

SONOS

Instant access to endless music.

Sonos plays it all. Music from your personal library stored on your computer. More than 100,000 free Internet radio stations, shows and podcasts. And music services that let you stream and download their vast collections of songs from the Internet to the rooms of your choice. Sonos gives you the freedom to listen to whatever you want, wherever you want. Play a classical album from your music library in the kitchen and the living room. Wake up to a local radio station in your bedroom or use an online music service to create a custom radio station to play all over the house. Whatever you're into, rock or rap, interviews or instrumentals, Sonos gives you instant and endless music gratification.

Your Music Library

If you have a hard drive already filled with digital music or a CD collection just begging to be digitized, you're in luck. That's because Sonos liberates all that music from your computer so you can enjoy it in every room. Sonos supports all the most popular audio formats, including MP3s and iTunes®. And we make it easy to play music from other audio sources, like an iPod® or CD player.

Free Internet Radio

Sonos lets you tune in to more than 100,000 radio stations, shows and podcasts in every room of your house. Free of charge. The Radio guide lets you browse endlessly for both local and international stations or you can use Search to find a specific station. When you find what you love, add it to Favorites for your future listening pleasure.

Music Services

Don't have any digital music on your computer or just want more of it? Not to worry. Sonos works seamlessly with the most popular music services for computer-free access to millions of songs and stations — no ripping or downloading required.

Your Music Library

Sonos liberates the music that's stored on your computer so you can enjoy it all over the house. Plus, you can connect your CD or MP3 player to Sonos and spread those tunes to every room.

Music stored on your computer

Sonos gives your personal music collection plenty of room to roam. You can store your entire digital music library (up to 65,000 tracks) on up to 16 PCs, Macs and Network Attached Storage (NAS) devices on your home network. Then, Sonos will wirelessly stream all the music you've ripped and downloaded—all over the house. And Sonos supports all the most popular file formats, too. If you haven't gone digital yet, it's easy to rip your CD collection or find a ripping service that will do it for you.

Sonos will play back these popular audio file formats:

- MP3 (compressed)
- WMA (compressed)
- AAC (MPEG4)
- iTunes
- Ogg Vorbis
- Audible (format 4)
- Apple Lossless
- Flac (lossless)
- WAV (uncompressed)
- AIFF (uncompressed)

Note: Previously purchased Apple "Fairplay" DRM-protected songs may need to be upgraded. See Apple for details. WMA Lossless format not currently supported.

Music from your favorite audio sources

Want to listen to the music that's stored on an iPod or iPhone? Just add the Sonos Wireless Dock to your system and wirelessly play those tunes on Sonos—all over the house.

Have a favorite CD that isn't ripped? Simply connect any external audio source with a line-out jack, like a CD player, to the analog line-in jacks on the back of every ZonePlayer to play all that music (or audio) in every room.

Internet Radio and Sonos

Sonos lets you listen to more radio in more rooms. And when we say more, we mean it. 100,000 Internet radio stations, shows and podcasts are all yours to enjoy, in every room of the house. Free of charge. Whether your computer is on or off.

With the Sonos Radio guide it's easy to find, discover and play great radio — locally and globally. You can browse for stations in the neighborhood and around the world or search to find something specific. Tune in to live radio shows, catch up on what you missed with podcasts featuring the best of previous shows, and see what will be playing soon. Simply add any station or show to Favorites so you can find and play it in an instant

Music Services

There's a whole world of music on the Internet just waiting to be streamed or downloaded to every room of your house. Below is a list of many of the most popular services that work with Sonos. Of course, we can't list them all since there are so many to choose from. Just remember that Sonos is compatible with any download service that provides DRM-free tracks.
