Got it. It's surprising that it would not account for age, race, gender etc..
I just got my Illumina kit. Looks like I need a doctor to sign off on the application to send in my blood and get results. Can I ask Kruger or Eva to do it?

probabilities are never described as accurate. if I tell you its 50.percent chance of rain, does that mean , it rains 50 percent of the time, one hour on one hour off. . does it mean if it rains at all for 1 minute, but in the past on these days, it only rained one out of every two days going back 100 years. so what. . genetic tests don't exempt blacks. fat people, old people. chinese people. . so if all the blacks had it , and not one white person it would still say you are 20 percent likely to get it , because blacks make up 20 percent of the population. . Is a twin engine more likely to have an accident because there are two engines both with the same likelihood of failure.

Well if it's identified it can probably be reproduced. Are there hyper fucking mice running around somewhere?

I'd like to know if it says you are predisposed to something, is it pretty accurate?
