Subject: Projects We Love: Questions Answered

Date: Thu, 12 Dec 2013 22:51:36 +0000

What's it take to make a ukulele? What really happened the night Abraham Lincoln was assassinated? And what's the deal with Bitcoin? All this and more in this week's Projects We Love.

 The UkeBuke

The UkeBuke

By Sarah Greenbaum and John Weissenrieder

A visual artist and a master instrument maker came together to produce a publication that's part artist book, part assembly manual. The UkeBuke shows in beautiful detail how wood, a few strings, and craftsmanship combine to create something that can produce wondrous sounds.

 Worst Seat in the House: Henry Rathbone & the Assassination*Worst Seat in the House: Henry Rathbone & the Assassination

By Caleb Stephens

You probably don't know who Henry Rathbone is, but you've definitely heard of Abraham Lincoln. Rathbone was seated next to Lincoln the night of Lincoln's assassination, and even wrestled with Lincoln's killer, John Wilkes Booth.

Worst Seat in the House is the first non-fiction book to look at Henry Rathbone's life and how that fateful evening affected it.

Deep Web: The Untold Story of Bitcoin and The Silk Road

Deep Web: The Untold Story of Bitcoin and The Silk Road

By Alex Winter

Sex, drugs and Bitcoin — just a few of the things associated with the uncharted realm of the internet's dark side. This documentary film will examine the Silk Road, an online black market, and the rumors, truths, and squashed dreams surrounding Bitcoin.
