Howie and Jeff- this is my response to Barry's Friday email at 5:06pm to me with the other documents- is this needed to defend my "work ethics"?

Barry,

I have always served the company above and beyond regarding time, energy, experience and talent.

As far as Dan Yih is concerned I have said many times - Dan Yih is not a restaurant CFO and has shown along with his assistant Evan Crandall to be a hindrance. You saddled me with a CFO who has caused me to have a greater work load to most staff they come into contact with.

Q4 is the wrong time to teach someone how to be a restaurant CFO as in Section 9.9 I have the ability to "not unreasonable" consent- I do not consent nor am I being unreasonable.

As for your items of priorities:

1. 2014 Budget- in works and have had input many times. Plan to have "another" review on Thursday as scheduled.
2. Incentive plan for employee retention. I have been told by Dan there is such a plan yet after several requests I have still not been given this plan for review.
3. a. BF design has had maybe 10+ changes. Still a work in motion. As scope keeps changing. A 4pm meeting is scheduled for today.
b. Menu changes- still a working item- we need to know scope of the actual restaurant. How many total kitchens before a final menu can be completed.
4. Wildwood- Dan was actually in my room when I had a conversation with our LL. At this date we can have 1 more week - first week of January "only" but as I said to Mr. Silver - I am sure the new tenant will not have a signed lease before YE. So January should be an open option and maybe February.
5. Resolution with Harrah's - we have a conference call with Rick Mazer who is the Senior VP for Harrah's on December 17th which was pushed back from December 10th.

I must say you are the first person in 27 years to accuse me of not doing my job to the fullest or being a hard worker.
