Hello Jeffrey,

Biorealize is a company I've been meeting with and advising since last fall. They are exiting their accelerator and are raising outside capital at this time.

I would like to find a time to tell you more about the company and introduce you to the team. Orkan, Karen and Mike have been working on prototypes and testing versions in labs for a couple years now. Orkan and Karen have been teaching at Penn and Mike has a long history at Siemens as an engineer. They've won a few showcases and have had good press along the way. I've personally met with a few community labs that are ready to place orders and believe they are in a unique space.

I have attached a version of their investor deck and one-pager. If you have time to talk next week or meet in New York I'll make myself available. I look forward to hearing your thoughts and feedback.

Regards,
Aaron
