Jennie,

I recently closed a large and complex deal with the commercial department at Bank of America. I was granted access to all their distressed debt inventory and I would like to raise funds and start acquiring some performing distressed notes. In addition I have recently purchased a small portfolio of non-performing notes that I have successfully restructured and settled with the borrowers for twice of what I paid.

What I really wanted is to meet with a guy like Jeff and get direction on where someone of his caliber feels I can be most productive. I took my own company from no income with no capital investment and grossed few million in the past two years. I would like his advice on how to grow and where he feels I can be most profitable.

Please see if you can schedule something. I need direction and there is no one better in my book than a powerhouse of success like Jeff.

Thank you
