I've been waiting for an application number for weeks, I don't even know who that is I was going to ask my dentist who teaches if he could get her interviewed but EVERYTHING is computerized and not by name by application number and you were going to come back to me with it and never did and I emailed at least 3 times asking and got no reply. Will give him a call on Friday and explain special circumstances and see if they will reconsider interviewing her, if she was not competitive on the merits based on the other applicants and I assume not if they didn't grant her an interview they may interview her as a favor to me but they won't accept her. We are ranked based on the mean GPA of the applying class and not sure but if there's some kind of standardized entrance exam those scores as well, will try my best.

Subject: Interviews at Mt. Sinai closed

Dear Applicants,

We would like congratulate all of you for your decision to pursue residency positions for advanced training in general practice dentistry. Mt. Sinai, New York has now completed invitations for interviews of selected prospective applicants. Please note that we routinely receive far more "qualified applicants" than those we are able to select for interviews. For those of you who may not have yet been invited for interviews, please do not feel discouraged. Dental Residency applications continue to be at their highest levels and applicants to open position ratios remain highly competitive.

Please be assured of our best wishes as you pursue excellence in the provision of dental care.

David Andrews
