

From: Alan Dershowitz <[REDACTED]>

To: "[REDACTED]"

Subject: Re: false charges against you

Date: Fri, 02 Jan 2015 01:55:42 +0000

Thanks for your kind words. It's remarkable that lawyers would submit such a provably made up lie to a court without even minimal checking which would have disclosed the impossibility of it being true. I will fight this to the end and appreciate your support.

Sent from my iPhone

On Jan 1, 2015, at 8:45 PM, AJ Delgado <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Dear Professor Dershowitz,

This is Arlene Delgado, HLS Class of 2002.

Last night, I read about the lawsuit involving you and I am absolutely horrified and disgusted. You were always spoken of at HLS as a man of great character, whom female students always felt at ease being around, and are known throughout the world as a person of impeccable integrity. It pains me to see our civil system allows such claims to be placed inside a public, legal filing. And, those shrugging their shoulders should take note -- this can happen to anyone. Next time, it could be their son, husband, or best friend (as well as women) slandered with false charges in a court document.

Should you want any volunteer assistance in fighting this, please feel free to count on me.

I also hope to write something in your defense in National Review Online or elsewhere.

All the best,

A.J. Delgado