Dear Jeffrey,
here is an answer to your concerns from the representative of the company we were thinking that should build the center, Richard Keyworth, who had the following comments concerning your fears,

.....
Hi Eduardo,

It is easy to make assumptions following the media reports on Long Island, which have focussed on the damage, obviously. I think we can easily allay Mr Epstein's fears, once he realises the type and location of the major damage and the property involved. A lot of the damage was caused by a storm surge to very low lying properties. This will be of no concern on the land we have in mind at Stella Maris Village which is on high ground. Also the direct high wind damage was to property with a less robust construction. The new Center, along with all our new builds at Stella Maris Village are built to Category 5 hurricane standard. Our recently constructed new show home has suffered no structural damage at all during the storm.

Perhaps you could relay this message to Mr Epstein.

Best wishes

Richard Keyworth

.....
may be can ask Richard for more details latter,
best,
Eduardo

Dear Jeffrey,
ok,
we understand your point of view, but the northern part of the island where we were planning to have the center was much less affected, we will survey the area in January, during our conference, may be take photos and see what are the prospects and will inform you,
best,
Eduardo and Thom

Dear Jeffrey,

me and Thom are working on a conference at Long Island Bahamas January 7-12, 2016, at Stella Maris resort, you are of course invited excellent people have signed up for the conference, they will help us to tackle the question concerning the personal of the Center.

As you know there is a new situation in Long Island Bahamas due to the big destruction caused by hurricane Joaquin, how it affects our plans?, well, it adds a new dimension to the motivation to build a Physics center in Long Island Bahamas, in addition to the scientific side, such a project will enhance the moral of the islanders and probably get strong support and endorsement from the government of Bahamas and other Bahamian organizations, I am sure everybody will be very grateful to you if you were to participate in the advancement of a high level center for Bahamas, for both scientific and humanitarian reasons.

By the way, after all the destruction in Long Island Bahamas, I do not think you have to worry about people in the center being distracted other things, the Island is not so attractive now, scientists will feel now even more isolated, just will have to worry about thinking and carrying out their research,

I am now back in Beer Sheva,

best regards,

Eduardo Guendelman
