I have been in a quagmire since hiring in June an unknown young Asian woman, who the super at my building recommended because he puts all her construction requests thru instantly.

The construction work is fine...as you know I stripped the apartment down to the bones.

This woman is more of a project coordinator. By patiently explaining what decor I wanted...i will have been frustrated for months and came to the conclusion that she is in way over her head.

I brought Susan Gutfreund over yesterday and she is going to just take over the job. Working out finances today. Susan may do me a favor in exchange for a Town and Country story. She immediately stopped the Asian's designs and just took over.

Will update asap. I hope to have the shell done by Feb. 1st so I can move in. I am planning on staying in L.A. for Jan and working there. I am fine to stay at Annette's 2 E. 70th till I go to Mustique for Dec. 16-Jan. 1st.

Moving forward....i tried to save money by hiring an unknown and just waited my own time. I think Susan Gutfreund can finish this quickly. She is a real pro.

I have used part of your Birthday presented and added my money. Going over the numbers to see exactly where I am and how to have Susan run the job.

Can not dwell on this stupidity.

Dear Jeffrey,

Only you can send the most adorable assistant to the most expensive sushi restaurant in New York (Kappo Masa) to buy me dinner when I'm on my pre-Thanksgiving/ Christmas diet.

Annette and I did order the steak, but not the most expensive one.

We thought about taking a few meals home for breakfast, lunch, and dinner today but didn't want to take advantage of your culinary generosity.

We love you, we missed you. Next time send your assistant to a jewelry store.

xoxo,

Peggy

P.S. In all seriousness, I am meeting with this decorator today and bringing Susan Gutfreund to try and organize what has become an endless construction job since June. I will update you on the agonies of renovation later.
