The lawyer's memo about the loan is attached to the e-mail with the subject "Taxes" and interspersed with Noam's comments in bold letters.

Did you receive it?

Yes, there is, with many pages. Not sure if we have it. I'll request the copy.

Here is the answer for one of your questions yesterday to Noam about the archives agreement with MIT.

"For avoidance of doubt, this is a donation of the physical materials only, not of the copyright or any other intellectual property rights in the Donated Materials. I or my assignees expressly retain all right, title and interest in all intellectual property rights, including copyrights, in the Donated Materials (whether published or unpublished). I may assign, license or transfer any or all of the intellectual property rights in the Donated Materials at my sole discretion and I and my assigns, heirs, and designees shall enjoy all intellectual property protections to the Donated Materials for the applicable life of such protections and any extensions thereof."

Thank you very much for looking into all this. Your help is not only necessary, but urgent. Yesterday, after meeting you, we received an e-mail from the family with a memo from the family's lawyer (who was Noam's previous lawyer) about the loan, presenting the conditions of the loan in a totally misleading way (to put in a mild way) (I'll forward Noam's answer to you). It distresses us to see how things are being manipulated. But of course, we don't like to talk to anyone about these. It is especially hard to Noam for obvious reasons. But things can keep going the way they are going or we'll end in an extremely difficult situation. That's why your help is so significant to both of us.
