Hi Jeffery,

I want to give you a quick update regarding my studying.

I'm halfway thru the javascript bootcamp program. First half of the program was extremely challenging as I had to learn a lot of information in a very short period.

Right now we in a project development phase where I'm working in a team and building minimal viable product using full stack (MEAN stack in particular). It is going well but I feel that I'm not as good as some guys who had previous CS experience. I need to practice more to gain confidence.

After the program I'm planning to continue to work on my own projects and look for some freelance work.
