Ok I have to be in dc tonight but we can talk tomorrow

I think the main problem with GW's plan is that it requires tons and tons of money and is all or nothing..+ question whether rev really that big. he's losing money on ops until 2021 even if everything goes acc to plan. And as you are aware, there are some personality issues that really underscore the whole "all or nothing" part

His plan coming together or I should say that his technology and technical / regulatory work. He doesn't have a great business plan but I think I figured one out for him. And maybe he liked it.

But he has to stop talking to ppl and freaking them out!!

There is a major time window of opportunity from February to september next year where the stars might align in terms of being able to bundle and acquire all the landing rights. And if he liked my business plan that is really the big big step.

Since this is an ecosystem changer he also has to spend a ton of time with the telcos so they are advocates and partners. It does work.

It will be super disruptive and if he can stay quiet and do more, it will be faster than he thinks.

I can explain by phone if you want tomorrow. Today in NYC w strive and dealing w some more UN stuff
