if you were alone all day in a strange city what would you do?

my son would have said (and did): ride the subway (or bus) my daughter would have said take pictures a write about it (she has been writing in NYT and WaPo a lot lately —what good this does he I don't know)

I would say: eat the weirdest food I could find (which is actually a scientists kind of remark) you would not say: find a rich guy and help him manage his money (maybe I am wrong about that)
