I wanted you to understand how the Dan Crown deal works as you asked. They make an overhead investment in my company over 2 years which started July '10 and runs through July '12. They recoup in two ways, overhead reimbursement directly from the studios that make any of my films, and by having a 5% share of my producer fees and back end of projects developed during the two year term. If the 600k hasn't been fully recouped within the term, they charge 10% per annum but can only recoup via this system. I have no current or further obligation to repay from myself personally or from any other source.

Please let me know if you want a copy of that signed agreement for your perusal and files.

I have an outstanding line at Private Bank (my bank, no pressure) for 300k, which they will continue to carry. I am slowly paying off my contractor 226k, and I have a two tax obligations 105 to California due May 6th, and 480k Federal due in December. California I will pay off on that date, and federal will be paid from a film fee. I have no outstanding liens and my credit rating across the board is above 720.

Jeffery,

Thank you very much for hearing me out today.

Attached please find the document we discussed. Please let me know if you need any other information.

I cannot tell you how much this consideration means to me.

Best,
Barry J
