Hi Jeffrey,

we should see movement over the upcoming week. The huff post and forbes articles will fix both of those listings. Your other properties are being reinforced with links now and should help push the last negative off. There was a google update that is boosting some of the listings we are working against which is why we need to place new content on those domains.

Re: mugshot - [REDACTED] sent the docs to wiki last week and we are working to get that image fixed. this will get resolved.

I know this week looks bad on google. Yahoo and bing do look better and have taken to some of the previous work. Ill have a report out tomorrow with that info

Sorry for short email am in the car but wanted to respond promptly.

Give me another week or so to get that content up and I think we will see things turn in our favor.

Hi All,

Just wondering if any feedback is available re: [REDACTED] email. I am hoping to move forward with our Forbes submission this week.

Respectfully,

Dear Cecile,

I hope you are well. I'll give you a ring today. We have an article accepted for publication in the Huffington on the PED. I'll send you the link when done.

We also have the opportunity to publish an article in Forbes about Jeffrey. The writer needs a topic that is business oriented.

Is there a business or start up of some kind in which Jeffrey or the foundation played a pivotal role?

I'm looking for something that would be newsworthy.

Thank you for your thoughts,
best regards,
