Just to keep you posted and sorry to bother you with my personal stuff ...My sister is having a bit of a challenging time. She has been desperate for a baby but has been told she has gone into early menopause. She is only 22 months older than me. Two things I am trying for is to support her and go through all possible steps and options and secondly I will be going to see Romoff to discuss freezing my eggs asap.

I really want to do all in my power, I can't lose this dream!!

And I want to do all I can to see her happy, she wanted to be a mommy for so long.
