Hi Josh,

Sorry, we will pass for the moment, cannot justify a price that begins with a 2. the market is not there, the other plane also has been on the market forever and not a real bid.

Thx again,
Larry

Larry,

I am familiar with the history of the aircraft. This aircraft has flown all over the world since then. This does not make it worth any less. If it is not something you're comfortable with then it is just not the right plane. The seller will not accept $18M.

I was going to call you today and suggest that before any further price discussions I encourage you and Jeffrey to go to Dallas to see the plane and review its records. Every BBJ is so distinctly different it is important that you have a full understanding of the asset to correctly know how to assess value to it. Let me know if you would like to schedule a visit. Best, Josh

Josh,

Are you familiar with the original owner of N720MM? When it was know as N313P?

See this link:

https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/Premier\_Executive\_Transport\_Services

If so,. It's worth less the $18M with a serial number trace, not sure how the Middle East airports would feel about this serial number upon arrival?

Is this correct info?

Thx

Larry
