Hello.....

As you know, this week French President Nicolas Sarkozy and British Prime Minister David Cameron hosted a summit in Paris, which was attended by sixty countries and ended up more of a celebration and a photo opportunity, than its stated goal of helping the TNC start the process of building democratic Libyan institutions, from political parties to a police force and a free press. But the real reason for the summit, was to enable French, UK and to a lesser extent, American and other NATO countries (companies) gain 'favorite status' access to the more than $300 to $500 billion in contracts that will be awarded over the next seven years while the TNC embarks on rebuilding their country and jump starting the economy.

Attached please find several articles to give you background on the summit, if you haven't been following it.

Please feel free to call me if you have any questions or would like additional information.

Sincerely,
Greg Brown
