

From: Eric Roth <[REDACTED]>
To: jeffrey E. <jeevacation@gmail.com>
Subject: Re:
Date: Sun, 09 Apr 2017 12:47:29 +0000

Why was the trip "weird"?

"Weird" is sitting in my kitchen just trying to finish my bagel listening to Adrienne's mom and 80 year old aunt talking non stop without coming up for air complaining how cold New York is even though I cranked the heat up to 76 degree's to provide them with their Florida-like environment. That's "weird".

Best regards,

Eric

Eric H. Roth, President
International Jet Interiors
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

On Apr 9, 2017, at 8:41 AM, jeffrey E. <jeevacation@gmail.com> wrote:

yes, textiles and suede or billard. . the ride yesterday was very very weird. . moving the captain seat back was very helpful. . two sofas nice. lav not nice. . . kitchen awkward. the strip that holds the piece in front of the screws on the upper valance , is too defined. .

On Sun, Apr 9, 2017 at 8:26 AM, Eric Roth <[REDACTED]> wrote:

You mean fabric on chairs and divans and using leather sparingly as accents? If so, this would be a great, sophisticated look and very comfortable.

Best regards,

Eric

Eric H. Roth, President
International Jet Interiors
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

On Apr 9, 2017, at 8:23 AM, jeffrey E. <jeevacation@gmail.com> wrote:

i would like to consider grey wool . flannel. different shades of grey textile. i think leather is also outdated

On Sun, Apr 9, 2017 at 8:18 AM, Eric Roth <[REDACTED]> wrote:

What you refer to as "hand rails" is called side ledges. The "handrails" are the upper thin pieces of wood in the PSU's that run the length of the cabin- the rails that you may grab when standing and go to grab to stabilize yourself during turbulence.

Now for your question about an alternative material(s) for the ledges and tables:

We discussed the ledges in leather as an alternative material. Obviously wood veneer or carbon fiber. A fabric will not hold up over time- especially with a drink/cup holder in this area.

There really aren't any other materials I could see implemented.

I am confident that when we change the wood to a stained quartered oak, the whole feel of the aircraft will change. The wood in the aircraft just dates it and make it look like an old 550.

I like the colors and textural feel you are going after and I am contemplating wither a warm gray or deep taupe for the carpet. The new wood, brushed "not shiny" plating will be the finishing touch to creating a couture styled interior that will make your aircraft look brand new.

Best regards,

Eric

Eric H. Roth, President
International Jet Interiors

On Apr 9, 2017, at 7:53 AM, jeffrey E. <jeevacation@gmail.com> wrote:

what other material beside wood can you use for table and handrail. - carbon fibre? what else?

--

please note

The information contained in this communication is confidential, may be attorney-client privileged, may constitute inside information, and is intended only for the use of the addressee. It is the property of JEE

Unauthorized use, disclosure or copying of this communication or any part thereof is strictly prohibited and may be unlawful. If you have received this communication in error, please notify us immediately by return e-mail or by e-mail to jeevacation@gmail.com, and destroy this communication and all copies thereof, including all attachments. copyright -all rights reserved

--

please note

The information contained in this communication is confidential, may be attorney-client privileged, may constitute inside information, and is intended only for the use of the addressee. It is the property of JEE

Unauthorized use, disclosure or copying of this communication or any part thereof is strictly prohibited and may be unlawful. If you have received this communication in error, please notify us immediately by return e-mail or by e-mail to jeevacation@gmail.com, and destroy this communication and all copies thereof, including all attachments. copyright -all rights reserved

--

please note

The information contained in this communication is confidential, may be attorney-client privileged, may constitute inside information, and is intended only for the use of the addressee. It is the property of JEE

Unauthorized use, disclosure or copying of this communication or any part thereof is strictly prohibited
and may be unlawful. If you have received this communication in error, please notify us immediately by return e-mail or by e-mail to jeevacation@gmail.com, and
destroy this communication and all copies thereof,
including all attachments. copyright -all rights reserved