The 2012 Miss Universe pageant finale is just a few days away! On Wednesday 19th December 2012, the winner will be revealed...will it be any one of these African Queens?

BellaNaija revealed the ladies representing African nations at this year's pageant; now we get to take another look at them all dolled up for their glamorous Miss Universe official photoshoot.

Of all the girls, the South African contestant seems to be the leading African queen based on feedback from international beauty pageant analysts including the renowned Global Beauties website.

Nigeria, Angola, Botswana, Ethiopia, Gabon, Ghana, Mauritius, Namibia, South Africa and Tanzania are represented! No Canada hasn't shifted from North America to Africa, however, Miss Canada was born in Ghana to Ghanaian parents so check her out as well.

The new photos definitely give us a new view from the previous shots! So who's your fave this time?

ISABELLA AGBOR OJONG AYUK - NIGERIA

HOMETOWN: Cross River State

AGE: 26

BIO

Isabella Agbor Ojong Ayuk was raised in Ikom Local Government Area of the Cross River State known as a largely agricultural area. Being raised by a widowed mother, Isabella has a passion for working with women suffering similar life situations. She would love to work to create small-scale businesses to help raise money for scholarships for their children, home renovations and other basic needs.

IN HER OWN WORDS

I want the judges to know that determination brought me this far and that I have learned to never give up in life.

FUN FACTS

1. Isabella loves to cook.
2. Isabella admires Angelina Jolie for her humanitarian services.
3. Isabella is currently in the National Youth Service Corp in Nigeria.

MARCELINA VAHEKENI – ANGOLA

BIO

Marcelina Vahekeni grew up in a humble village in the South of Angola. She had a very happy childhood, despite the political tensions in her country at the time. Her biggest interest is cooking. Currently, Marcelina works in social work, but dreams of one day opening her own cosmetic company.

IN HER OWN WORDS

I believe that the most important aspects in life are to be humble, open to learning from others, and always keeping in mind that everything starts at home.

FUN FACTS

1. If Marcelina could meet any celebrity, it would be Michelle Obama as she admires her.
2. The person who has most influenced Marcelina's life is her mother.
3. Marcelina's most prized possession is a pair of shoes her father gave her from Russia.

SHEILLAH MOLELEKWA – BOTSWANA

HOMETOWN: Gaborone

AGE: 19

BIO

Sheillah Molelekwa was raised in a small village by her grandmother. Eventually, she moved in with her mother in Gaborone. Sheillah likes to spend her free time reading, swimming, drawing and singing. She is most passionate about helping others around her, and is always looking to participate in ways through which she can benefit those in need. Currently, Sheillah is studying Accounting at Botho Colloege in the capital of Botswana. With this degree, Sheillah hopes to become an auditor at a national bank.

IN HER OWN WORDS

All my life I want to be able to give back to the community in every way possible.

FUN FACTS

1. If Sheillah could meet any celebrity, it would be Russell Simmons.
2. Sheillah's most treasured possession is her Bible.
3. If Sheillah were to win the lottery, she would use her earnings to build a cancer hospital in her home country.

HELEN GETACHEW – ETHIOPIA

HOMETOWN: Addis Ababa

BIO

Helen Getachew grew up in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, where she had a very spiritual upbringing. She enjoys reading the Bible, spending time with family and friends at the cafe, and studying fashion. Helen hopes to one day be involved in working with organizations that help the poor, especially children. Currently, she is employed with Unilever in their Promotions department.

IN HER OWN WORDS

I would enjoy working for a nonprofit organization, but my dream in life is to create one myself.

FUN FACTS

1. Helen enjoys decorating and making things beautiful.
2. Helen thinks that the biggest problem facing the world today is food shortage.
3. If Helen could meet any celebrity, it would be Liya Kebede because of her work with UNICEF.

CHANNA DIVOUVI – GABON

HOMETOWN: Ngounié

AGE: 21

BIO

Channa Divouvi was raised in the modest neighborhood of Libreville. Her hobbies include cooking, reading, and shopping. Raised by a mother who is blind, her dream job is to own her own association that helps the visually impaired in her country. She would also like to start a cosmetic company that caters to women of color.

IN HER OWN WORDS

My mother's positive attitude throughout all challenges gives me a different perspective in life.

FUN FACTS

1. Channa collects seashells and she likes to use them to make decorations.
2. Channa hopes to utilize her platform as a titleholder in order to help those less fortunate.
3. One time Channa helped a woman deliver a baby in her car.

GIFTY OFORI – GHANA

HOMETOWN: Accra

BIO

Gifty Ofori grew up in the suburbs of Accra, the capital city of Ghana, in a household where discipline, hard work, and achievement were always emphasized. Quite the tomboy, She would often be found playing outside with her siblings and friends. Her interests include gardening, nature, and travel. Currently, Gifty works as a registered nurse and hopes to one day become a doctor.

IN HER OWN WORDS

I pursue every goal and opportunity presented to me with passion.

FUN FACTS

1. Gifty collects pebbles gathered from along the coast of Ghana and other West African beaches.
2. Gifty's dream job is to become a medical journalist on an international news network.
3. Gifty once helped delivered a baby on the side of a road when she was a first-year nursing student.

AMEEKSHA DEVI DILCHAND – MAURITIUS

HOMETOWN: Curepipe

AGE: 26

BIO

Ameeksha grew up in Curepipe, Mauritius, which is situated on the central plateau of the island. During her college years, she played soccer on her college team for 6 years. Ameeksha has a law degree and would like to later go on to become a politician. She will soon start concentrating on her Bar Vocational Practice to become a barrister to serve her nation. Ameeksha's dream is to eventually work as either a Minister of Education or Minister of Sports & Leisure for her home country of Mauritius.

IN HER OWN WORDS

If we start right now by giving a hand to the needy person next to us, we will be heading towards a better future both economically and socially.

FUN FACTS

1. Ameeksha would love to meet the Manchester United Footballer Luis Nani.
2. Ameeksha was not a girly girl growing up; she played soccer throughout her childhood.
3. One of Ameeksha's most unusual jobs was predicting horoscopes via text messages.

TSAKANA NKANDIH – NAMIBIA

HOMETOWN: Windhoek

BIO

Sakana Nkandih hopes to one day become the first female President of Namibia, because, through this role, she would be able to battle her country's internal socio-economic issues and strive to empower women. Her strongest passion is reading. She also enjoys volunteering with animals and gardening. Currently, she is attending The University of Namibia in order to gain a degree in Public Management.

IN HER OWN WORDS

As a politician, I could be an asset to the cause of the people of my country and their rights...something that is very close to my heart.

FUN FACTS

You are hilarious I swear. You are those kind of posh guys, who are secretly aje pako within, or better still, who secretly want to act out razz, even for a few moments. To escape their perfect posh lifestyle and be real or at least normal. Since your environment won't let you, so you have found your outlet in BN. I've seen your comments on other posts. Well done Jide. Hugs, hugs. ██████████ happy you found your outlet. From one princess to another (ajebo prince), I feel you 100%. Generations of breeding have wound me up tight and proper, I can't even hide behind my laptop and display razzness. Lol. I read your comment on the Break Up post, and I swear, ██████████ halfway in love with you already. I only know a few Nigerian men, who can articulate such a dicey issue so well and so rational. It had me going WOW, I like how his brain works, there's still hope. Carry on your gutter talk bro, its entertaining. LOL

I have to commend Angola for consistently sending pageant quality young women to these competition. If one reviews the candidates that Angola has sent over the last six or so years, you will agree. Another thing is that Angola is unashamed to send in chocolate-skinned candidates along with the light-skinned ones.

Not all Africans are black. Thought we all knew/agreed to accept that by now. We need to move from this you-need-to-be-black-to-be-African mentality. When Europeans do it it's called "Eurocentricism" and it's "wrong".

But there's ABSOLUTELY nothing wrong about Africans being Afrocentric. Alle?

My views

Angola- there is a lot of pressure to perform but I think she could struggle

Botswana- another who could struggle- have not placed in top 10 since

Mpule won

Ethiopia- I am not convinced about this girl- she is way too skinny

Gabon- wow factor- very pretty- will she land a top 16 spot? Will have to wait and see

Ghana- she could struggle- she has been inconsistent so far

Mauritius- last year's winner was way way better than this Viveka

Namibia- very pretty but I can't really feel her- something is missing somewhere

Nigeria- could struggle- Damiete would have been the better representative

South Africa- could Africa produce another Miss Universe? She is the favourite to win

Tanzania- very interesting candidate, would love to see her land a top 16 spot

Canada- I don't get her=she looks like a drag queen for my liking and ill fitting dress too
