Dear Jeffrey,

I met the owner of this property last night at a dinner. The interior colour scheme is beyond atrocious, however it sits in 7 hectares and he seems quite keen to sell. Apparently his children no longer want to visit him there (2 sons are living in the States and his daughter who lives in Geneva and hates flying).

He told me his asking price is €10m which I think is on the high side. But as we know in Morocco there is a large disparity between asking prices and what people actually accept.

I heard from Marc Leon's. Partner that Mr Kiss may have sourced a buyer for Ben Enakhill who will give then give it to the King as a gift.....but who knows. It's still up in the air.

Anyway, I pass it on just in case.

As ever,

Mark

Hello Mark,

It was nice to make your acquaintance yesterday evening. Following our conversation and for any chance, please find herewith the presentation of my property.

Je compte sur vous pour en faire un usage discret.

Très cordialement.
