Thanks so much for the feedback today and I appreciate your insight into the situation, Always know you can depend on me to help, I truly believe Leighton was handling himself like any other candidate, it becomes more magnified with him being he is such a high ticket item, I think at the end of day, that he could be flexible to a certain level( what ever that is, I could not tell you, But I think that it can remain hopeful that if there is any give or take all around,then, everyone would benefit from it,. It probably is helpful in this case that I'm the middle person in the discussions it could perhaps help in getting it together to a level that would make sense and work for all,

In the mean time, I will continue to look for you for additional candidates, confidentially, usually the direct recruit is the best way to find this level of talent, advertising helps on certain levels, others it is nowhere near as effective.,

Regardless of any results , I'm thankful that we can talk to each other about it knowing you never have to walk on eggshells when you speak to me, as it makes it easier to work together,

Thanks again for everything, you , Leslie, and Jeffery have been so amazing to work with.

Best,
Russell
