Dear Larry,

Please have a look at the attached draft agreement and see if it meets the approval of Mr. Epstein and his attorneys.

I did have a lengthy conversation earlier today with ROYAL JET and I will come back to you with a full report , in the morning your time.

Hope you have a safe flight today.

Very best regards

Bob P.

This was some of the last correspondence with Mike, Royal Jet Legal.

Dear Darren,

Further to the emails below, we have now discussed the points raised with Royal Jet.

To keep matters moving forward, please find attached a revised draft of the Aircraft Purchase Agreement (in clean and red-line against the last draft) (which remains subject to the further review of Royal Jet).

Please note the following:

1. Section 1.2: Royal Jet have agreed that all 3 engines may undergo the boroscopic examinations at the same time prior to the main pre-purchase inspection. Royal Jet will require that, at the least, those examinations follow the inspection process for the aircraft itself in that the engines should be accepted if they are in the Delivery Condition (rather than there being a wider discretion). Note that Royal Jet are incurring costs in grounding two aircraft to complete these examinations and potential swaps and that the inspection process is already in the Purchaser's favour given it is rare there is no discrepancy requiring rectification.
2. Section 3(c): Royal Jet accepts that the Purchaser will not have complete control over Etihad, so we have made the requirement to commence the inspection by 18 December subject to the availability of Etihad. As a general point, it is important that we finalise the Aircraft Purchase Agreement and confirm this slot quickly so we do not lose it.
3. Section 3(d): Boroscopic examinations of the engines are now excluded from the main pre-purchase inspection given they will already have been carried out.
4. Section 3(e): Royal Jet will permit further flight tests to be carried out, but if they are not necessary as per manufacturer's maintenance manual for release to service then the Purchaser should pay for them.
5. Section 3(f): Royal Jet has agreed to remove the time limit on provision of the inspection report (so it will simply be provided "as soon as is reasonably practicable").
6. Section 14(a): Given we have not made any progress in inserting an actual amount for the combined single limit, in order to move this forward, we have simply made reference to a market standard amount.
7. Section 15(f): We have corrected the typos referenced below.

We will forward the aircraft specs and inspection scope to you once received from Royal Jet. Once those are inserted, we should be able to put the Aircraft Purchase Agreement into execution form and proceed with signing.

We look forward to hearing from you.

Kind regards,

Mike

Hi Larry,

All agreed.....Thank-you.

I will try to send you a simple letter agreement tomorrow.....And then we should discuss a good strategy and you need to fill me in on your past dealings.

Looking forward to coming to a successful conclusion and securing you the purchase of a good BBJ.

Best

Bob P.

Bob,
Mr. Epstein is happy to enter into an agreement with you, your interests need to be aligned, he doesn't want to get a better price and pay you less of a commission, it should be the reverse. So the proposal is as follows:
$16M - $16.4M you get $250k.
$16.4M - $16.6M you get $200k.
$16.6M - $16.8M you get $150k.
above $16.8M you get $100k.

best,
Larry

Hi Larry,

Good morning from sunny Monaco.

First off let me reiterate the following. I have always prided myself in giving people the "Best "advise that I know how. Next , I have always prided myself in honesty and transparency and lastly I'm probably the hardest working aircraft broker that you will ever meet.

However I only work hard for money and that's what separates me from most other brokers.....I really have no real love for aviation and you would be hard pressed to find me at any air shows or conventions and for sure you will never read very much about me in the Internet. We are just known for working hard , producing results and getting deals done and being remunerated handsomely for our success's .

I pride myself in giving good advice, which is what I did with Mr. Epstein.

1. The BEST deal in the world on a "good " pre-owned BBJ is Royal Jet YG-038..... bar none.
2. The nicest BBJ at a very fair price ( off-market ) is YG-062 ....Alberto Pinto designed
3. The Best deal in the world on any aircraft anywhere was Boeing 757-200 S/N 24923 .....( Which is why we sold it within 24 hours after Mr. Epstein's rejection last week. )

Therefore I would be proud and privileged to represent your interests in trying to get a deal done with Royal Jet. My fee would equal 1% of the aircraft upon selling price to be paid simultaneously at closing by Buyer. Of course we would need to close a successful transaction in order to be paid. I would also need to see the original L.O.I. containing all of the terms and conditions discussed with Royal Jet , last time around. I have some very strong connections with Royal Jet and I feel confident that I could add a lot to the deal.

Thanks' in advance for your considerations and I will await your response.

I'm out for a private lunch today with the Prince so all my phones will be turned off for the next 2 hours.

Wish you all the very best

Bob P.

Jeffrey is asking if you prefer not to be involved in BBJ purchase?
