Jeff,

My friend Tom Silver had a disease called retinopathy, which is a detached retina and he had to have a "buckle" in his eye to hold it in, not sure if Boris is going to have this but he had a gas bubble inserted. Silver's doctor was the inventor of this gas bubble, his name is Dr. Stanley Chang B: 212 305 9535. He is probably one of the best in the world, I strongly suggest you call and talk to him about Boris' condition. Please mention that Tom Silver referred you.

Recovery –

- As far as recovery time, it's just one of those things that you get through and do the best to entertain yourself.
- The hard part of the bubble is that there's no pain, but when the individual is face down it puts a big hindrance on the recovery time so some tricks he mentioned are: using a massage table and having massages all day/throughout the day are paramount.
- Put a TV and/or computer on the floor below the massage table so you look straight down.
- He can buy foam with a face cutout to sleep as it's hard to get comfortable.
- When you sit in a chair, put a table in front of you and your head on the table – Tom had a table with a cutout in the center.
- Sex isn't hard because you are face down just like when you're on a massage table.
- The only good note, as long as you keep the one eye that's fine normal- you'll adjust quickly to having no vision in one eye.
