Dear Jeffrey,

I'm an assistant to Mr. Doronin and would like to inform regarding your question to Vladislav.

In London we have a good agency, I already called them. They explained that they can't help in this case as all the papers from Russian consulate in London go to Moscow and only here they decide (we suppose in Ministry of Inner Affairs). That's why it takes some time and when they receive papers back in London the consulate print passport quickly. Unfortunately we don't have contacts in consulate itself.

Also there should be an identification number Consulate gives when apply for passport, so the girl can check over the phone using this number if the passport is ready or not.

Telephone Embassy: +44 (0) 20 7229 6412, + 44 (0) 20 7229 7281

Telephone Consular Section: +44 (0) 20 3051 1199, 0845 868 11 99 (ext. 930)

This is the agency's contact information if you need any help (quick visas to Russia for example).
