We have had a discussion this morning and we are somewhat at a loss as to how to deal with this as it is now innuendo rather than substantive allegations, notwithstanding anything false they have said about you or Ghislaine.

We are having discreet discussions with the Press Complaints Commission but don't hold out much hope for a sensible.

We will be writing a lawyers letter to the Mail Group (again) upon the accuracy and innuendo failures. This is a regular thing and has to be done to register our displeasure.

No one else has even sparked at the story over here, which is a good thing.

Unfortunately this is what we have come to expect of the poor editorial standards and poor journalism of the Mail Group.

Most people here, sadly, just raise their shoulders and shrug saying this is just the Mail again!

However if you have any suggestions they are gratefully received.

Good morning from a very dull London.

I am afraid that I haven't read any of the Mail articles. I don't on principle. But I will be discussing with my team today any further action to be taken in light of another in today's Mail as well.

Jes is coming on 1st March or next week?
