I have attached a photo that I took the other day.

I do not understand.

It is centered - what you do not see is that the window line panel sits on top of the ledge.

Further, the cup holders and switches are centered (you can still see the running center line on the brass).

This detail coordinates extremely well with the conference table detail.

Perhaps it is challenging to judge from photo's, but I think you need to trust me on this one.
