I agree we want galley in front. Just saying that the configurations to do that on the G550 are not great due to the lack of aft windows.

Galley in back makes stewardess walking up and back when people sleeping

The G550 configuration with a forward galley looks problematic because they didn't put any windows in the back of the plane! When the galley is in the back, no problem. But if the galley is in the front, with the seats in the back, you have seats with no windows. Crazy.

I personally like the Global better.
