 This Week on Kickstarter

AUGUST 23, 2012

This week's projects will have you drawing comics like a pro, exploring NYC's underground comedy scene, and seeing the common glitch as a work of modern art.

Practice makes perfect

I Draw Comics is a comprehensive guide for learning everything you need to know about making your own comic books. Equal parts reference manual and personal sketchbook, it covers technical basics like page design and figure drawing, plus provides cool tips from some leading industry heavyweights on "how to tell any awesome story." The only other thing you'll need to go from comics fan to comics creator? Practice!

TELL YOUR FRIENDS! THE CONCERT FILM!

TELL YOUR FRIENDS! THE CONCERT FILM!

by Liam McEneaney

 Category Documentary

 Location Brooklyn, NY

It's no secret!

Tell Your Friends! The Concert Film explores how an alt-comedy scene went from the basement of a bar in New York City to the mainstream spotlight. From the emerging (Reggie Watts, Kristen Schaal) to the notably established (Janeane Garofalo, Marc Maron), it's an illuminating glimpse into the mechanics of making people laugh. Also: fart jokes.

Glitch Textiles

Glitch Textiles

by Phillip David Stearns

 Category Art

 Location Brooklyn, NY

Beauty and the glitch

Phil Stearns has mastered the art of the glitch. After spending a year crafting large-scale electronic artwork from the scrambled output of rewired digital cameras, he's ready to bring these vibrantly colored images off the screen and into 3D by — wait for it — weaving them into actual, tangible textiles.
