Re: Epstein Matter

Dear Bill:

This letter will confirm my telephone conversation on November 19, 2009 regarding the transfer of direction and supervision of you under the strict terms of the Non-Prosecution Agreement.

In our conversation, I asked whether the materials taken from Mr. Epstein's house in Palm Beach were ever inventoried and your response was, "Yes, a copy of that inventory was provided to Roy Black." I asked whether you still had all of the materials in your possession which was originally taken, and your response was, "Yes". I asked whether that materials you possess would be consistent with the inventory that you provided to Roy Black and again your response was, "Yes".

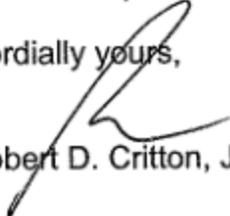

Based on the representations which you made to me, Bill, and your understanding of the obligation to preserve those personal items of Mr. Epstein inviolate pursuant to the terms of the Non-Prosecution Agreement in a safe and secure location, I advised you there is no reason for us to meet in that my responsibility was not to take possession, but to make certain that you continue to maintain Mr. Epstein's possession as set forth above.

If at any time, you are unable to maintain possession of those materials or have any concern whatsoever that Mr. Epstein's possession maybe compromised in any manner, please advise me immediately such that we can take the necessary actions to protect and preserve those materials as is required in the Non-Prosecution Agreement.

Cordially yours,

Robert D. Critton, Jr.

cc: William Richey, Esq.

I have read the above and agreed that the substance of the conversation which you relate above is correct and that I understand my ongoing obligation to maintain Mr. Epstein's personal items inviolate until all terms of the Non-Prosecution Agreement have been satisfied and I have been advised of same by you.
