No, thank you. As far as I know ATP is the fastest and classes are well organized so I might just have to wait. I only wanted you to know the dates changed.
There is a class near Atlanta with an Oct 11th opening but I don't know that 1 week delay is good enough reason to go there instead of a better location.

ATP said there is too much to study before the class and no way I could get it done in less than 3 weeks. I tried to explain I could do it and even told them if I am not ready with the 3 tests completed and home study done by friday, they can reschedule me. But they still refuse to even let me register for the 4th so I will have to wait for the next class on the 18th
