That is so funny,I wrote about him in my school! 2004 was my last year in high school and we had to write about person that we think accomplished a lot!and I picked him because he was the one that got nobel that year in medicine! He has polish roots and played basketball! :) he is cool!

yes , THEY shared the prize. her name is Corey Buck.. You are too young to hold such strong views. When sitting with others that have accomplished a great deal , like Richard and Corey, I would suggest you merely ask questions. instead of trying to state your views. I have always told my students that they get to argue their point only after the age of 27, before that they are limited to inquiry. anyway , you looked great, and when i get back i will invite you to more experiences. (not a new recipe)
