just starting to look at Critton bills. The hourly rate is out of line given the volume of work. $500 is upward side of reasonable for partner if smaller amount of work, but given amount of work that should be discounted 20-25%% based on custom and practice. The hourly for associates is way high. Jessica bothers me to no end. Billing her at $125. How much is her gross billing. Our deal and I cut this deal with him is that we would pay her salary, because he was complaining about not having enough support, not he would make money off of her. Believe her salary was between 60-70k What is the difference between that and what he billed for her time? continuing to review
