

From: "[REDACTED]"

To: "jeevacation@gmail.com" <jeevacation@gmail.com>

Subject: Fw: epstein/confidential

Date: Mon, 19 Jul 2010 19:31:39 +0000

Importance: Normal

---

Sent from my Verizon Wireless BlackBerry

---

From: Kimberlyhoman@aol.com

Date: Mon, 19 Jul 2010 11:11:10 EDT

To: <[REDACTED]>

Subject: epstein/confidential

I spoke with Michelle Harrington, an attorney w/ the NY Office of Sexual Offender Management. She said NY does not have the 7-day rule that feds do, NY has not adopted the Adam Walsh Act, and the only obligations JE has to NY would be those imposed by the state. She told me that she could not give me a definitive answer w/o JE's name, so I supplied it. She then told me that he was not required to do anything if he was simply traveling for 10 days & not changing residence, unless he is going to be using an internet account or internet identifiers other than the ones he has registered with them. If so, he can send the info to them in writing, signed by him. She stressed that it would still be a violation of fed law if JE does not comply w/ the 7-day requirement. Will call Baldwin next.