You are right...see how tired I am! I need more light and no more stupid heat. I want 20% electrical energy given off as heat and 80% light (ideally). Too bad I am not a tungsten filament bulb. I want to come and get some counseling but I might jump off a cliff first.

you're so tired that im sure you really meant high heat to light. not very low,... very low heat to light is in fact what you should desire,,, the issues that i told you and gerry edelman ten years ago. is that money is like blood for the system.. its nothing to be ashamed. of.. come and get some counseling.

Thank you for noticing. I am tired and frazzled. I would really like to quit the foundation job and move on to something else (in the for-profit world) but I just don't feel like I have any options. It is frustrating. I don't want to be unemployed and dependent.

The internal politics at the foundation are very strange and I am just not that interested in being a part of a large bureaucracy that has a very low heat to light ratio. I've done my time.

Not sure what to do. Feel like I'm really a tough decision spot right now. Not a good situation when you are tired and jetlagged.
