hi jeffrey,

.. it seems i cannot start painting the ceiling.. i talked to brice two days ago and he told me that i cannot start painting untill probably mid of april.

i was thinking maybe we can do the cabanas in the meantime. if we do them in that pinto's style, we should apply first like three coats of venetian plaster with blades to get a smooth surface, and then painting. the walls in the cabanas have a texture because they were painted before with roller, and make them smooth it is going to take some time.. we have to prime them and then venetian plaster three coats i was thinking of this just to have something done..
