Ok. Yes, please review it carefully next week, and let's go over your comments in a substantive way. I understand about a wide-reaching grant program (I was not advocating this at all, this will be coupled with very specific target areas (already delineated by you), which I will give to you in the next couple of days, along with some of my own suggestions for your approval, which clarify.

Google page is getting cleaned, but it takes time for the google spiders and bots to find the links. They have not crawled yet, they index and catalogue, and its all there, and as I said, as soon as they do this (which I can't control), you will see a dramatic change. As everything is in place for it to place and get cleaned up. Yahoo! went through and we at least got that cleaned up. They still are behind google, as their search algorithms are different. Easier...

As I said, your wiki page has been cleaned up extensively, now one reads it as "ho hum, so what" as opposed to egregious. We managed to block your foes from interfering. That was quite a bit of work, as they were in there within 15 minutes every time we made a change, and putting it back.

Over time, we will clean it up even more.

■ I understand that it is the Epstein Foundation, but we need the name "Jeffrey Epstein" in there, to get it ranked at the top of the google searches. Part of the issue is how many times it specifically sees your full name as opposed to the countless other epsteins out there. Please understand that this has a "double purpose"
