Did you see the word "now"? Now is no longer "now." my team requires something in your voice to tag various things so we can post all the content we created. It has to be in your voice as it will say "by Jeffrey Epstein" what is so difficult about supplying this to me?

How about some support? Trying to do an excellent job for you with many severe constraints. It's not difficult to come up with the dissembling patter, but it isn't helpful nor productive, and in fact, very unproductive. It only detracts and does not add any positive content.

Also, it is also unhelpful to refer to various "Bag ends" from untrue rumours and slander that was spread about me widely years ago, and was fully refuted in a Court of Law. That's total crap what those people said to you, and the people who actually know me stick by me, and I wouldn't be afforded the various opportunities that I have were it not so. My books, talks, achievements stand on their own merits.

My golden rolodex wouldn't be so golden if this were not so.

Tomorrow, as I am busy today, I will send my communications, where I thought I was being clear and neither vague, bullshitting, or anything else.

You are being unnecessarily hard on someone who was just trying to return a favor given. That's it. I wasn't trying to annoy you, bullshit you, rip you off, or anything else.

Spoken in a calm voice.

And by the way, in a very early phone conversation, you told me you had articles, and this and that.

Your friend
Al

Jeff,

It is 4:30 a.m. I have been up ALL NIGHT working on this project along with my team pulling all nighters too. Please understand that all this needs actual content and specifics, which has to be created. Not just mentions like below. As you well know, all these people are very serious people, and they have to be written up correctly and with a proper understanding and insight into what they are doing. This isn't something that can be done by hackers or search engine experts/webmasters, etc.

I have enough right now to work on from what you have already supplied, and we are building out real sites, which will then be sent out to the various services that will insure it getting top treatment on the search engines.

Another group is building a different Jeffrey Epstein (a false identity) site on sports, and they are writing up all the content on that, as I know nothing about sports...

Did you get my earlier posts from this morning?
