This is for your information only. This is considered the "best" reputation management site in the business, and the one recommended by Pablos' team. I went and got it them to print it out for me, as the last time I spoke to them, their price wasn't even in the ballpark. We are doing everything they are doing, and even far more, but I wanted you to have some realism, about what we are doing and what people are pricing this job at, etc.

I am not suggesting using them, but it has a good outline of the same approach we are doing, but for far far less...

Hi Al,

What you mentioned is exactly on point, and an aspect of our strategic approach.

Please have a look at the strategic recommendations, and proposal. If we choose to not do the Google Suggest bar, the investment will be lower by around 5K a month.

We are 100% confident about getting Jeffrey a superb result. Feel free to reach me anytime on my cell at [REDACTED]

Sincerely,

Eric

Thank you for your kind words. I am one of many interesting people who will be profiled in depth on Jeffrey's site, but now, we must do something to counter-act all the negative stuff that fills the web page after page after page. It is unrelenting, and any good that he has ever done, and he does a lot, is totally lost in the din.

Thanks. Yes, Al. I noticed that site, you created it on the 13th. You are an impressive person. At some point, I would love to chat with you, my father is a neurosurgeon, and I have a love of neuroscience and the areas of which you are a master!

Sincerely,

Eric

Hi Al,

I want to let you know we are still finishing the recommendations, so I anticipate I will have the final version by no later than another hour.

Sincerely,

Eric
