

From: "Sultan Bin Sulayem" <[REDACTED]>
To: "Jeffrey Epstein" <jeevacation@gmail.com>
Subject: Fwd: DP World Callao Media Monitor
Date: Sat, 02 Oct 2010 22:23:20 +0000
Attachments: DP_World-Monitor_02-Oct-2010.doc

Sent from my iPhone

Begin forwarded message:

From: "Yasir Zubairi" <Yasir.Zubairi@hasaad.ae>
To: "Sultan Bin Sulayem" <[REDACTED]>, "Mohammed Sharaf" <[REDACTED]>, "Anil Wats" <[REDACTED]>, "Matthew Leech" <[REDACTED]>, "Maciek Kwiatkowski" <[REDACTED]>, "Sarah Lockie" <[REDACTED]>
Cc: "Natasha Boukhary" <[REDACTED]>, "Rochie Talavera" <[REDACTED]>, "Dana Khalaf" <[REDACTED]>, "Sana Lutfi Maadad" <Sana.Maadad@hasaad.ae>
Subject: DP World Callao Media Monitor

Dear All,

Please find attached and below the initial media monitoring for the Callao opening coverage in the media. We will send an update on Sunday.

--

English Media: Khaleej Times, WAM, ZAWYA Dow Jones, AME Info, Mena FN, India Times, MSG, Gulf News, USA Today, IPS, Day Life, Fana News

Arabic Media: Emarat Al Youm, Al-Arab Qatar, Al Bayan, Al Khaleej, Al Fajr

English Media:

DP World Callao opens one year ahead of schedule
Khaleej Times

South America's largest and most modern container terminal on the west coast, DP World Callao, was officially inaugurated by Peruvian President Alan García Perez and DP World Chairman Sultan Ahmed bin Sulayem.

Global port operator DP World's newest marine terminal, situated close to Peru's capital city, Lima, has opened a year ahead of schedule after 27 months of construction following the granting of the concession in July 2006. Also attending the high profile ceremony were the Minister of State of the UAE, Reem Al Hashimy, DP World CEO, Mohammed Sharaf, authorities of the Peruvian Government, representatives of the business community and top executives from DP World. In his speech, DP World Chairman Sultan Ahmed Bin Sulayem said: "We are pleased and proud that DP World Callao has joined DP World's global network and look forward to its bright future. We believe Peru to be exemplary in economic and political stability in South America. It is also the ideal entry point for the west coast of South America, which is a dynamic economy with a large cargo market and strong trade growth."

DP World CEO Mohammed Sharaf added: "DP World helps create opportunities for the communities and economies in which it operates. DP World searches for, trains and employs local talent, and through its work brings in not only containers but more trade, more jobs and more income for the entire economy. This in turn is translated into more income for the government and better services for the people, which means more children going to school and more people accessing vital health care."

DP World Callao has an operating annual capacity of around 850,000 TEU (twenty foot equivalent container units) and is located in the south zone of the port of Callao, covering an area of 225,000 square metres. Its two berths, each 350 metres with a 16 metre draft, are capable of handling two post-Panamax vessels of around 8,000 TEU at the same time. The terminal has six Super Post Panamax giant gantry cranes, 18 rubber tyred gantry cranes (RTGs) and state-of-the-art information technology. Its construction represents the most important investment in the history of the Peruvian port industry, with hundreds of million dollars invested.

Global Environment award Meanwhile, DP World's London Gateway has been recognised for its outstanding commitment to the environment at a prestigious awards ceremony celebrating the best of the international maritime community. The team behind the developing deep-sea container terminal and one of Europe's largest logistics parks on the Thames estuary in Essex were awarded the Environmental Protection prize in the Lloyd's List Global Awards ceremony at the Dorchester Hotel in London on September 29. London Gateway's Chief Executive, Simon Moore, said that the award was recognition of the outstanding hard work that has been put into the environmental management programme at London Gateway.

Garcia: Large-scale projects boost Peru's development
Andina

Lima, Sep. 30 (ANDINA). President Alan Garcia said Thursday that the $500-million Muelle Sur container terminal in Callao is one of the major projects undertaken by Peru to boost its development.

"Peru has successfully undertaken large-scale projects and initiatives," said Garcia Perez, "the new container terminal will put our country on the same level as major ports on the West Coast of South America, from Panama to Chile."

President Garcia said that "this project will not only widen the doors of the country" but will also help overtake other terminals in the region, "regaining the privileged position the Callao port once had."

"Now, Callao re-emerges strongly to turn other ports into alternative and secondary terminals to this one, which has historically, geologically and geographically been the port of South America."

The Peruvian leader noted that the construction of this port has been completed eight months ahead of schedule. The 30-year concession to develop and operate this new container terminal in Callao's southern zone was granted to DP World Callao in July 2006 and construction works started in April 2008.

President Garcia went on to say that initiatives like Muelle Sur are only possible with investment and stability, "without which large-scale projects such as Chavimochic, Chira Piura and Majes could not be executed."

"Further on, the Inter-Oceanic Highway connecting Peru and Brazil will also be completed as well as the ports on the jungle rivers and the large airports such as Chincheros in Cusco," he added.

(END) NDP/EEP

DP World opens port facility in Peru
WAM

WAM Dubai, Oct 01st, 2010 (WAM) --DP World, majority-owned by Dubai World conglomerate, inaugurated a new US$500 million port in Peru on Thursday, one of the biggest ports on South America's Pacific coast.

The port known as Muelle Sur in the port district of Callao outside Lima was opened with a ceremony including Peruvian President Alan Garcia, UAE State Minister Reem Ibrahim Al Hashimi, DP World chairman Sultan Ahmed bin Sulayem and other officials.

Sulayem expressed his joy about joining of the port to DP World network, citing that Peru is a model for economic and political stability.

Executive Director of DP World Mohammed Sharraf, said the DP World is keen to provide opportunities for communities and economies, where it operates.

One of the largest port projects in recent history, the new facility will be able to handle 1.2 million containers annually. It will have 24 cranes that handle 25 ship containers per hour. DP World partnered with Peru-based Uniport on the project in Callao, which is already Peru's largest port and one of the largest in South America. DP World is a subsidiary of government-owned Dubai World and operates at least 50 terminals in 31 countries.

DP World opens big Peru port facility
Zawya

DP World, majority-owned by Dubai World conglomerate, inaugurated a new 500-million-dollar port in Peru on Thursday that is one of the biggest on South America's Pacific coast.

The port known as Muelle Sur in the port district of Callao outside Lima was opened with a ceremony including President Alan Garcia and DP World chairman Sultan Ahmed bin Sulayem and other officials.

"Today Callao is emerging as a powerful force as a port, which it has been for historical, geological and geographic reasons, for South America," Garcia said.

One of the largest port projects in recent history, the new facility will be able to handle 1.2 million containers annually. It will have 24 cranes that handle 25 ship containers per hour.

DP World partnered with Peru-based Uniport on the project in Callao, which is already Peru's largest port and one of the largest in South America, DP World is a subsidiary of the debt-ridden government-owned Dubai World and operates at least 50 terminals in 31 countries.

DP World Callao inaugurated
AME info

South America's largest and most modern container terminal on the west coast, DP World Callao, was yesterday officially inaugurated by Peruvian President Alan Garcia Perez and DP World Chairman Sultan Ahmed Bin Sulayem.

Global port operator DP World's newest marine terminal, situated close to Peru's capital city, Lima, has opened a year ahead of schedule after 27 months of construction following the granting of the concession in July 2006.

Also attending the high profile ceremony were the Minister of State of the United Arab Emirates, Her Excellency Reem Al Hashimy, DP World CEO, Mohammed Sharaf, authorities of the Peruvian Government, representatives of the business community and top executives from DP World.

In his speech, DP World Chairman Sultan Ahmed Bin Sulayem said: "We are pleased and proud that DP World Callao has joined DP World's global network and look forward to its bright future. We believe Peru to be exemplary in economic and political stability in South America. It is also the ideal entry point for the west coast of South America, which is a dynamic economy with a large cargo market and strong trade growth."

DP World CEO Mohammed Sharaf added: "DP World helps create opportunities for the communities and economies in which it operates. DP World searches for, trains and employs local talent, and through its work brings in not only containers but more trade, more jobs and more income for the entire economy. This in turn is translated into more income for the government and better services for the people, which means more children going to school and more people accessing vital health care."

DP World Callao has an operating annual capacity of around 850,000 TEU (twenty foot equivalent container units) and is located in the south zone of the port of Callao, covering an area of 225,000 square metres. Its two berths, each 350 metres with a 16 metre draft, are capable of handling two post-Panamax vessels of around 8,000 TEU at the same time. The terminal has six Super Post Panamax giant gantry cranes, 18 rubber tyred gantry cranes (RTGs) and state-of-the-art information technology. Its construction represents the most important investment in the history of the Peruvian port industry, with hundreds of million dollars invested.

DP World Callao opens one year ahead of schedule
MenaFN

South America's largest and most modern container terminal on the west coast, DP World Callao, was officially inaugurated by Peruvian President Alan García Pérez and DP World Chairman Sultan Ahmed bin Sulayem.

Global port operator DP World's newest marine terminal, situated close to Peru's capital city, Lima, has opened a year ahead of schedule after 27 months of construction following the granting of the concession in July 2006. Also attending the high profile ceremony were the Minister of State of the UAE, Reem Al Hashimy, DP World CEO, Mohammed Sharaf, authorities of the Peruvian Government, representatives of the business community and top executives from DP World. In his speech, DP World Chairman Sultan Ahmed Bin Sulayem said: "We are pleased and proud that DP World Callao has joined DP World's global network and look forward to its bright future. We believe Peru to be exemplary in economic and political stability in South America. It is also the ideal entry point for the west coast of South America, which is a dynamic economy with a large cargo market and strong trade growth."

DP World CEO Mohammed Sharaf added: "DP World helps create opportunities for the communities and economies in which it operates. DP World searches for, trains and employs local talent, and through its work brings in not only containers but more trade, more jobs and more income for the entire economy. This in turn is translated into more income for the government and better services for the people, which means more children going to school and more people accessing vital health care."

DP World Callao has an operating annual capacity of around 850,000 TEU (twenty foot equivalent container units) and is located in the south zone of the port of Callao, covering an area of 225,000 square metres. Its two berths, each 350 metres with a 16 metre draft, are capable of handling two post-Panamax vessels of around 8,000 TEU at the same time. The terminal has six Super Post Panamax giant gantry cranes, 18 rubber tyred gantry cranes (RTGs) and state-of-the-art information technology. Its construction represents the most important investment in the history of the Peruvian port industry, with hundreds of million dollars invested.

Global Environment award: Meanwhile, DP World's London Gateway has been recognised for its outstanding commitment to the environment at a prestigious awards ceremony celebrating the best of the international maritime community. The team behind the developing deep-sea container terminal and one of Europe's largest logistics parks on the Thames estuary in Essex were awarded the Environmental Protection prize in the Lloyd's List Global Awards ceremony at the Dorchester Hotel in London on September 29. London Gateway's Chief Executive, Simon Moore, said that the award was recognition of the outstanding hard work that has been put into the environmental management programme at London Gateway.

DP World Callao opens one year ahead of schedule
India Times:

South America's largest and most modern container terminal on the west coast, DP World Callao, was officially inaugurated by Peruvian President Alan García Pérez and DP World Chairman Sultan Ahmed bin Sulayem. Global port operator DP World's...

DP World opens container terminal at Peru port
Gulf News:

Callao, Peru: South America's largest and most modern container terminal on the west coast, DP World Callao, was officially inaugurated yesterday by Peruvian President Alan García Pérez and DP World Chairman Sultan Ahmad Bin Sulayem.

Global port operator DP World's newest marine terminal, situated close to Peru's capital city Lima, has opened a year ahead of schedule after 27 months of construction following the granting of the concession in July 2006.

Also attending were UAE Minister of State Reem Al Hashemi, DP World CEO Mohammad Sharaf, officials of the Peruvian Government, representatives of the business community and top executives from DP World.

Bin Sulayem said: "We believe Peru to be exemplary in economic and political stability in South America. It is also the ideal entry point for the west coast of South America, which is a dynamic economy with a large cargo market and strong trade growth."

Opportunities

Sharaf added: "DP World helps create opportunities for the communities and economies in which it operates... brings in not only containers but more trade, more jobs and more income for the entire economy." Sharaf said the opportunities improve the lives of the people.

"This in turn is translated into more income for the government and better services for the people, which means more children going to school and more people accessing vital health care."

DP World Callao has an annual capacity of about 850,000 TEU (twenty-foot equivalent container units) and is located in the south zone of the port of Callao, covering 225,000 square metres.

Its two berths, each 350 metres with a 16-metre draft, are capable of handling two post-Panamax vessels of about 8,000 TEU simultaneously. The terminal has six Super Post Panamax gantry cranes, 18 rubber tyred gantry cranes and state-of-the-art information technology.

It is the most important investment in the history of the Peruvian port industry

DP World Callao opens one year ahead of schedule

MSG:

The terminal has six Super Post Panamax giant gantry cranes, 18 rubber tyred gantry cranes (RTGs) and state-of-the-art information technology. Its construction represents the most important investment in the history of the Peruvian port industry, with

DP World opens port facility in Peru

IPS:

DP World, majority-owned by the United Arab Emirates (UAE) Dubai World conglomerate, inaugurated a new US$500 port in Peru on Thursday, one of the biggest ports on South America's Pacific coast.

The port known as Muelle Sur in the port district of Callao outside Lima was opened with a ceremony including Peruvian President Alan Garcia, UAE State Minister Reem Ibrahim Al Hashimi, DP World chairman Sultan Ahmed bin Sulayem and other officials.

Sulayem expressed his joy about joining of the port to DP World network, citing that Peru is a model for economic and political stability.

Executive Director of DP World Mohammed Sharraf said DP World is keen to provide opportunities for communities and economies, where it operates.

One of the largest port projects in recent history, the new facility will be able to handle 1.2 million containers annually. It will have 24 cranes that handle 25 ship containers per hour. DP World partnered with Peru-based Uniport on the project in Callao, which is already Peru's largest port and one of the largest in South America. DP World is a subsidiary of government-owned Dubai World and operates at least 50 terminals in 31 countries.

DP World Callao opens one year ahead of schedule

USA today:

CALLAO (Peru) South Americas largest and most modern container terminal on the west coast, DP World Callao, was officially inaugurated by Peruvian President Alan García Perez and DP World Chairman Sultan Ahmed bin Sulayem. Global port operator DP World ...

DP World Callao opens one year ahead of schedule

Day Life:

The terminal has six Super Post Panamax giant gantry cranes, 18 rubber tyred gantry cranes (RTGs) and state-of-the-art information technology. Its construction represents the most important investment in the history of the Peruvian port industry, with...

DP World opens port facility in Peru
Domino.IPS

DP World, majority-owned by the United Arab Emirates (UAE) Dubai World conglomerate, inaugurated a new US$500 port in Peru on Thursday, one of the biggest ports on South America's Pacific coast.

The port known as Muelle Sur in the port district of Callao outside Lima was opened with a ceremony including Peruvian President Alan Garcia, UAE State Minister Reem Ibrahim Al Hashimi, DP World chairman Sultan Ahmed bin Sulayem and other officials.

Sulayem expressed his joy about joining of the port to DP World network, citing that Peru is a model for economic and political stability.

Executive Director of DP World Mohammed Sharraf said DP World is keen to provide opportunities for communities and economies, where it operates.

One of the largest port projects in recent history, the new facility will be able to handle 1.2 million containers annually. It will have 24 cranes that handle 25 ship containers per hour. DP World partnered with Peru-based Uniport on the project in Callao, which is already Peru's largest port and one of the largest in South America. DP World is a subsidiary of government-owned Dubai World and operates at least 50 terminals in 31 countries.

DP World, majority-owned by Dubai World conglomerate, inaugurated a new US$500 million port in Peru on Thursday, one of the biggest ports on South America's Pacific coast.

Fana News:

The port known as Muelle Sur in the port district of Callao outside Lima was opened with a ceremony including Peruvian President Alan Garcia, UAE State Minister Reem Ibrahim Al Hashimi, DP World chairman Sultan Ahmed bin Sulayem and other officials.

Sulayem expressed his joy about joining of the port to DP World network, citing that Peru is a model for economic and political stability.

Executive Director of DP World Mohammed Sharraf, said the DP World is keen to provide opportunities for communities and economies, where it operates.

One of the largest port projects in recent history, the new facility will be able to handle 1.2 million containers annually. It will have 24 cranes that handle 25 ship containers per hour. DP World partnered with Peru-based Uniport on the project in Callao, which is already Peru's largest port and one of the largest in South America. DP World is a subsidiary of government-owned Dubai World and operates at least 50 terminals in 31 countries.

NOTE: This e-mail message is subject to the Dubai World Group disclaimer see http://www.dubaiworld.ae/email_disclaimer