Subject: Dean Details Hauser's Scientific Misconduct

Harvard Magazine

Highlights from the September-October 2010 issue of Harvard Magazine

 current issue cover

Dear Reader,
As the new academic year begins, the September-October Harvard Magazine, now online, vividly portrays Harvard people engaged with important issues around the world. Travel with faculty members and students who are working throughout sub-Saharan Africa to combat the relentless epidemic of HIV-AIDS—improving health services, trying to change risky behaviors, and educating underserved populations and medical personnel alike. Meet psychologist Ellen Langer, a pioneering explorer of "mindfulness," who has altered perceptions of how our mental and physical states interact. Join the conversation as a Harvard father and son, conservative and liberal, debate their response to torture, expanded surveillance, and broadened executive power in the wake of the "war on terror." And travel to Beijing for two photographers' views of China's
