

From: Dan Dubno [REDACTED]
To: Jeffrey Epstein <jeevacation@gmail.com>
Subject: Yesterday
Date: Wed, 25 Aug 2010 15:40:49 +0000

Great seeing you.

Thanks for the generous contribution to Hourglass. Will send you the stuff needed.

If you want any research on that energy thing, easily done.

I have been thinking about your need for a writer-researcher-science enthusiast- digger for you.

Have some ideas.

Marcus Colombano is probably too old but he's so imaginative....San Francisco based.

There's a very good writer and smart fellow Bruce Upbin who is an editor at Forbes who we like...

There's a young and gorgeous writer at Forbes Courtney Myers, on science who is smart and turns heads...

I know that my pal Jessica saw you and I believe she wants to do this... she's connected and loves new ideas... and is a very interesting person.

I have many other ideas.

If you are holding science discussions and get together, you might invite me ☺

Please get me a list of the encryption folks you are working with if you feel comfortable in doing that and I can add to the list of good folks.

Are you interested in a discrete seminar, etc? There are some VERY talented Israelis I'm friends with you either have or are still doing things at a high level for the government who are well worth meeting. I do know a few folks from DARPA and IARPA who are definitely worth meeting... its just getting them to YOU that may be slightly difficult.

I mentioned my excellent polymath and hacker buddy 3ric Johanson who works for Nathan... and he's a sharp and crazy cookie.

Some initiatives I'm interested in on encryption methods, etc., include:

TOR (especially the VIDALIA project) and

<http://blogs.forbes.com/firewall/2010/05/25/android-app-aims-to-allow-wiretap-proof-cell-phone-calls/>

Thank you very much for your money 😊 and your friendship and getting away from the heathens.

You de man,

Dan